DESIGN ANDREA STEIDL
LACIVIDINA, ITALY

Dorothea, a Lithops-inspired design, combines the organic forms of “living stones” succulents. Its asymmetrical, planar seat is embraced by a sculptural backrest, transitioning from slender in the middle to wider at the ends, crafting an inviting interplay of soft curves and bold angles.

Offering nine modular options, including five seat sizes and four distinct backrests, Dorothea encourages innovative compositions that transcend conventional linear modularity. Like nature itself, these elements come together spontaneously, following their natural contours, forming groups that optimize spatial utilisation.
